

INTRO

"Digital transformation leadership and business governance is in my DNA."

My Philosophy is built on the foundation that the crowd is smarter than one person and that aggregating information makes three strands much stronger than one. This demands collaboration, openness, transparency, and speed.

My Experience spans many different technology segments in both private and public companies, and in various horizontal and vertical markets, including – Internet Services, Enterprise Software, SaaS Solutions and Web Applications, Life Sciences, Automotive, Financial Services, G2000, SMB, Federal Government, and within the Intelligence Community.

What's Next? Setting my sights to the future for new and groundbreaking board appointments. Challenging a leadership team and board to carve the path to new business opportunities and digital transformation while helping shape the strategies and structure needed to steer companies in reaching their goals - is my area of expertise. I look forward to new opportunities and challenges. If you think your company needs my expertise then I encourage you to reach out to me so we can discuss a vision together. During his tenure as President, CEO & Director of Infodata Systems, a publically traded company, Edwin restored profitable performance with the stock price soaring 400% and led M&A efforts on both the buy and sell side. In his brief tenure, he doubled cash, tripled working capital, and created 11 consecutive quarters of profitable growth – ultimately positioning the company for successful exit to McDonald Bradley as 10x valuation from his first day of employment.
